Acknowledgements

The CLEEN Foundation and Altus wishes to acknowledge the following organizations and groups for their consistent support towards making police stations part of a citizen's preview. First we thank the UK Department for International Development (DFID) under its Chase program and the Justice for All Programme for their generous support towards the Police Station Visitors Week 2013 and the publication of this report.

We are grateful to the National Human Rights Commission for taking on the responsibility to not only coordinate this 2013 edition of the Police Station Visits but also takes over the visits in Nigeria, thereby ensuring it is institutionalised within the country. We are also most grateful to the Nigeria Police Force and police stations across the country that participated in the visits and lastly to the numerous citizens who gave up their time to participate in the visits, without your commitment this report would not have been successful.

POLICE STATION VISITORS' WEEK 2013 Nigeria Report

Summary

The seventh edition of the Police Station Visitors' Week (PSVW) was conducted from 18th - 23rd of November 2013 under the stewardship of the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC). The co-ordination of the 2013 PSVW by the NHRC is in line with the Commission's legal mandate under Section 6 (1) [d] of the National Human Rights Commission (Amendment) Act 2011, which empowers the commission to visit prisons, police cells and other places of detention in order to ascertain the conditions thereof and make recommendations to the appropriate authorities. Additionally, the coordination of the visits by the NHRC also helps to strengthen its oversight functions to guarantee the promotion and protection of the human rights of citizens.

A total of 1115 visitors participated in the visits: 566 females and 549 males. 369 police stations were visited in 21 police state commands namely Abia, Abuja- FCT, Akwa Ibom, Anambra, Bauchi, Ebonyi, Enugu, Gombe, Imo, Jigawa, Kaduna, Kano, Katsina, Lagos, Nassarawa, Niger, Ogun, Oyo, Plateau, Rivers and Zamfara states. The visitors were sent out in groups or teams; each team made up with an average of three persons. The team leader was responsible for coordinating the visit to the police station including writing narrative reports of their findings in line with the narrative report guideline by Altus.

The PSVW promotes accountability and transparency. It also enhances accessibility of the police stations by the public in which their interactions aid in finding a lasting solution to the relationship issue between the police and the public. The visit is a mechanism aimed to achieve community policing, building and fostering police community interactions, identifying good practices that can be shared and replicated by other police formations in the country and the region.

The 2013 PSVW was conducted like the other editions with the same kit designed by Altus. The kit consists of 20 questions addressing the five categories of assessing the police stations and the services they render to the public. The categories are as follow:

- Community orientation
- Physical conditions
- Equal treatment of the public
- Transparency and accountability
- Detention conditions

The questions in the kit are based on a wide variety of international standards and agreements that are relevant to policing, especially in the area of human rights and accountability. But the answers recorded in each country are based on local perceptions and expectations. In this way, the Police Station Visitors Week was organized to bridge the gap between the local realities of policing and the general principles of human rights and standard of practice to which most countries of the world subscribe. Thus, using this kit, participants in the Police Station Visitors' Week are able to place their individual judgments about the quality of service at their own police stations in national, regional and global context.

The leader of each team coordinates the visit to the police station and thereafter uploads the scores with the narrative report of their findings written in line with the narrative report guideline to Altus website specially designed for the purpose. He/she will then send the kits and the narrative report to the Altus regional representative, CLEEN Foundation based in Nigeria

Why a global event?

The PSVW is a global event because it is an event that takes place across the five continents with different police organizations and community members visiting their local police stations and making use of the same kits to score their local police stations within the same period. The PSVW contributes to awareness raising on the part of the police of the need to be accountable to the members of their local communities. The PSVW aims to link local realities with global standards. Police institutions across the world have the same objective which is promotion of public safety and security of the citizens.

THE ASSESSMENT INDICATORS: TOP SCORING POLICE STATIONS IN THE 5 CATEGORIES

The various police stations that participated were assessed using indicators that are fundamentals of what makes a good police station. The following police stations scored the highest in each of the indicator area.

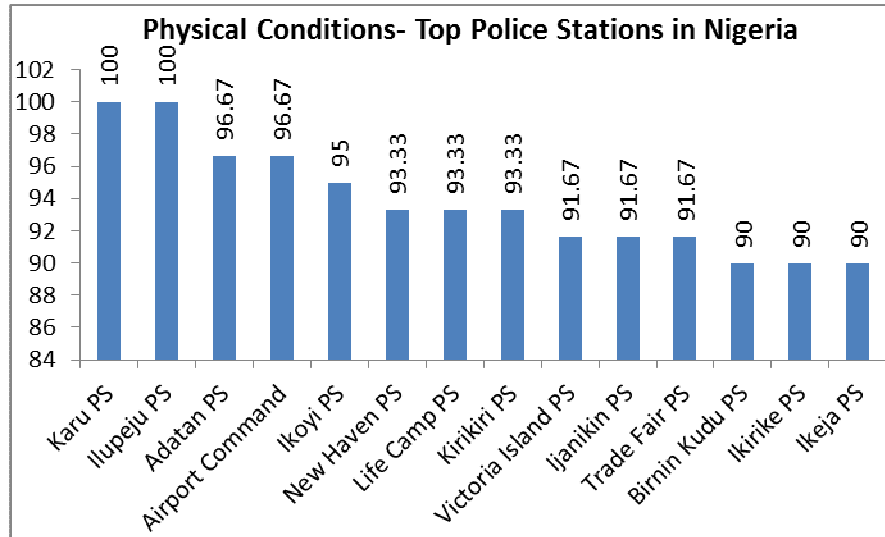

Community Orientation: Every police station is expected to interact with the general public seeking assistance or wishing to report a crime in their vicinity. The ability of police stations to make community members feel comfortable during their visit will make them more willing to work with the police on crime prevention and also in giving out useful information to the police to enable them track down criminals in the community.

Police Stations across the country have made considerable efforts to improve their engagement and interactions with the general public. In view of the above assessment the following top scoring police stations in Nigeria on Community Orientation are:

1. Karu Police Station(Abuja), Badagry and Seme Police Stations(Lagos) – 100%
2. Ijanikin Police Station(Lagos) – 98.33%
3. Ilupeju ,Trade Fair Police Stations(Lagos) and Airport Command(Uyo) – 96.67%

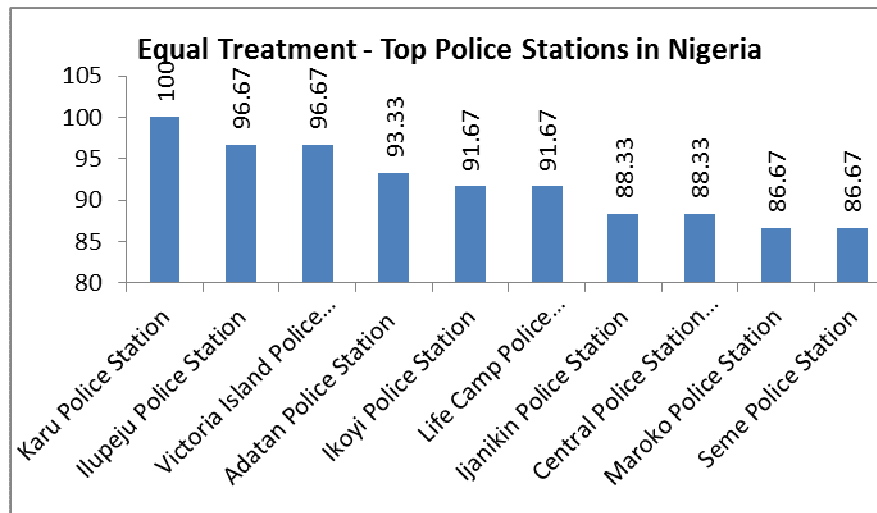

Physical Conditions: This comprises the facilities, spaces and equipment available in the police stations. The buildings of police stations are in varieties from big to small structures. However, the size of the buildings does not necessarily affect the orderliness and cleanliness of the station. The visitors' assessments therefore, were based on the physical condition of the structures of the stations. It is assumed that police personnel working in a disorganized and dirty police station exhibits hostility towards the general public.

The top scoring police stations on Physical Conditions as shown in the chart above are:

1. Karu Police Station(Abuja) and Ilupeju Police Station(Lagos) – 100%
2. Adatan Police Station(Ogun) and Airport Command(Uyo) – 96.67%
3. Ikoyi Police Station(Lagos) – 95%

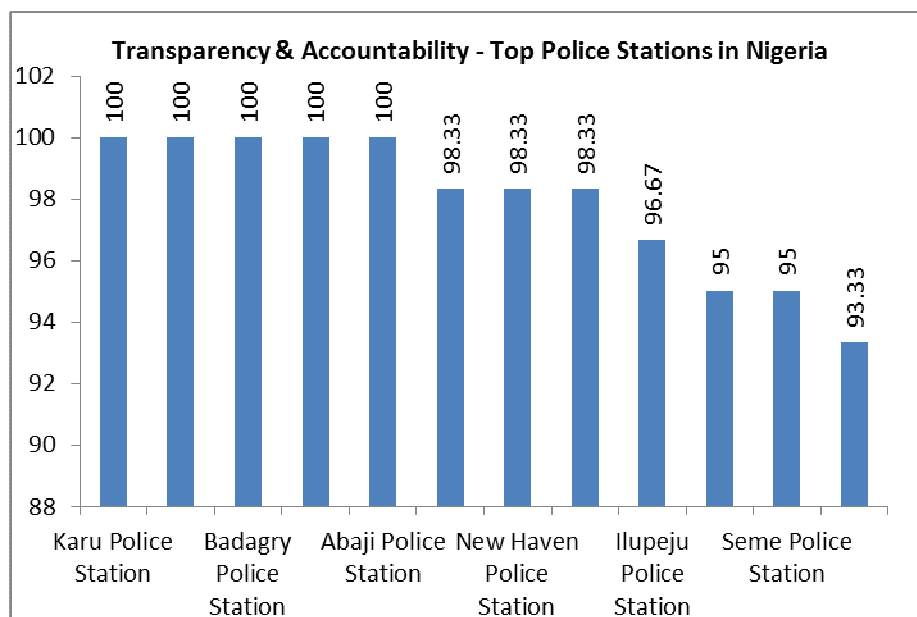

Equal Treatment of the Public: In treating the public, the police are expected to be sensitive in terms of gender, ethnicity, and religion and give equal treatment bearing all these in mind. Also allowance should be made for the less privileged and physically challenged members of the public by providing services such as translation services, Braille services for the blind etc.

The top scoring police stations in Nigeria on Equal Treatment of the Public as shown in the chart above are:

1. Karu Police Station(Abuja) – 100%
2. Ilupeju and Victoria Island Police Stations(Lagos) – 96.67%
3. Adatan Police Station(Ogun) – 93.33%

Transparency and Accountability: This comprises the ability of the public to easily obtain information on the measures of police performance in combating crime in the area of the police station. Providing means of easy identification of police officers in the police stations and providing clear information to the public on how to file complaint against police officers misconduct while on duty and how to commend police officers who performed excellently in their duty. Also there should be information to inform the public about other civilian bodies where necessary.

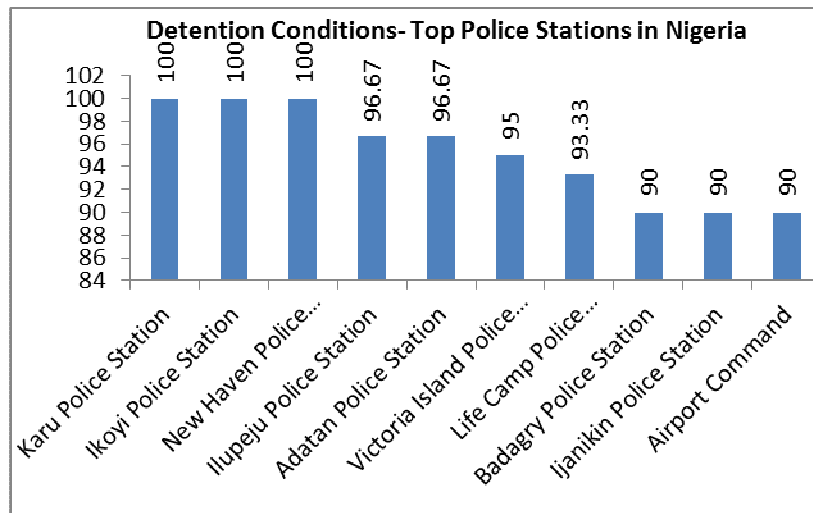

From the chart shown above, the following police stations in Nigeria scored highest on Transparency and Accountability

1. Karu, Utako and Abaji Police Stations (Abuja), Ikoyi and Badagry Police Stations (Lagos) – 100%
2. Victoria Island and Trade Fair Police Stations (Lagos) and New Haven Police Station (Enugu) – 98.33%
3. Ilupeju Police Station (Lagos) – 96.67%

Detention Conditions: This comprises the ability of the police stations to inform relatives or a third party of one's arrest, access to a lawyer, a reasonable cell size (adequate lighting and ventilation, not overcrowded); equipment for rest (bed, mattress and blankets); accessible toilet under decent and clean conditions; provision of food to include one full meal every day. Good police detention conditions in terms of hygiene and sanitation should equal with local standards. It is fundamental for everyone including detainees to have a clean, well lit and livable condition.

The top scoring police stations in Nigeria on Detention Conditions as shown in the chart above are:

1. Karu(Abuja), Ikoyi(Lagos) and New Haven Police Station(Enugu) – 100%
2. Ilupeju(Lagos) and Adatan Police Station(Ogun) – 96.67%
3. Victoria Island Police Station (Lagos) – 95%

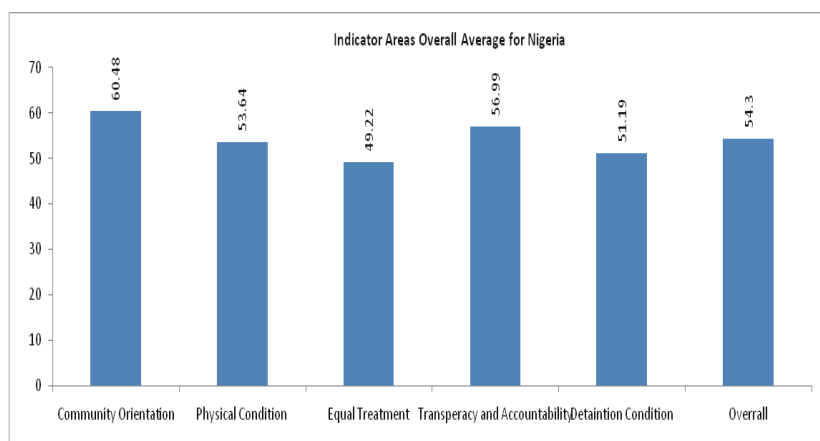

OVERALL TOP SCORING POLICE STATIONS IN NIGERIA

The overall top ten (10) police stations in Nigeria in 2013 PSVW are shown in the chart below:

- o Karu Police Station, Abuja – 100%
- o Ilupeju Police Station, Lagos – 97.33%

GOOD PRACTICES

Some of the identified good practices include

- ② Organization of Awareness programmes for community members on how to report crime. For example UMUEZEALA Police station organized sensitisation programmes with the okada riders to educate them on their activities during the yuletide season

- ② Partnership with local authorities, NGOs and various community groups such as vigilante and Neighborhood groups, youth and other interest groups to curb crime in the community in many police stations. For example IKONO police station in Akwa Ibom partnered with an NG, community policing partners and have set up an ADR desk and have a Neighborhood watch support officer. It was also noted that there is partnership with health service providers in some police stations. For example at Dutse Alhaji Police Station, visitors observed a group of Health Foundation providers providing free eye care services to the officers. Similarly at Life Camp police station they noted Immunization programs by health personnel. Also they noted counseling services being provide by religious groups.

- ② Designation of specific officers usually female to handle gender related cases at many police stations

- ② Regular police –public meetings at various police stations e.g A Division Police Station Mina, has in place the Limawa-Anguwa Daji Police security meeting initiative forum where security issues affecting the communities are discussed. Also the pastor-police meetings to discuss the activities of the church to reduce crime. At Ishashi police station in Lagos the DPO holds periodic meetings with Community Development Associations(CDAs)in his area.

- ② Police partnership and alliances with local associations such as the trader union, butchers association, vigilantee groups, welders, craftsman etc in Chanchaga police station. This ensures respects for social class, ethnic group, religion etc each member of the public can have direct access to the police station without fear of being intimidated or denied justice.

- ② Community support through provision of facilities – visitors observed in many police stations that individuals and community groups provide support to the police stations through the provision of facilities to assist the police station. Fro example Oguta Police Station had a new patrol van donated by Oguta League of professionals; Ogidi POLice Division (Ogidi - Idemili North) received community support in the fencing of the station; Central Police Station Court Road Awka has its only functional toilet facility donated by Awka Special Club etc.

- ② There is the provision of suggestion/ public complaints boxes at many police stations

- ② Orile Police Station:The police have a community programe called CBD which comes up every last Thursday of every month. It provides a platform for landlords, youths and interested civilians to discuss with the police on different issues affecting the community and the people and they seek for solutions

- ② The availability of televisions, computers and working gadgets such as CCTV in some police stations such as Ilupeju and Victoria Island to enable the police work effectively and also for the inmates to be kept informed about happenings in society

- ② Set up of specific units to handle gender related cases. For example at Ilupeju police station, a section called Community Support Center is being set up which handles cases of violence against women; Visitors also observed functional juvenile welfare centers in some police stations that handle cases of women and children. Trainings of the communities by police officers on domestic violence are also provided at Iju police station
